Sam Yuide takes a look at what's hot in the world of interiors

DESIGNER Louis Henri has a fascination with trees which he calls the guardians of the world. His latest painting, Natural, shows a group of trees he first saw driving out of Antibes on the coast road to Cannes when he was working on a villa project at Cap d'Antibes and which he has painted in different styles for many years. For this painting he achieved an ethereal effect using gold leaf, manipulating the mass to suggest rays of light breaking through. It was painted on gessoed board in his London studio and measures 154cms x 154xms.

Describing themselves as The Art Mosaic Factory seems like an exercise in understatement by Sicis. Their superior hand-made mosaic designs grace some of the most exclusive private houses, hotels, spas and swimming pools across the world. This stunning foyer from the Design Hotel Shanghai showcases their talents, bringing opulence and warmth to the space. The walls are covered in mosaics from their Gold collection and the floor features a design from the SiciStone Collection. T: + 39 02 876 099 | www.sicis.com

Evok, a four-piece modular seating collection, from Nathan Anthony is being expanded with a sofa. Evok features a series of stacked, colour-blocked layers, providing opportunities for personal expression. In addition each layer is available in different colours, and each piece features a band of wood between the upholstery for enhanced contrast.
