Nathan Anthony Launches Case Goods Capsule Collection at WestEdge

Custom upholstery resource adds wood correlates to its design trade offering

LOS ANGELES – Fall 2026 – Los Angeles-based custom upholstery design studio Nathan Anthony Furniture announces the debut of its Case Goods Capsule Collection at WestEdge Design Fair, located at Santa Monica's Barker Hangar in booth #217, October 29 - 31.

For its first foray into case goods that correlate with the design resource's upholstery products, Nathan Anthony co-founder and CEO Khai Mai realizes his passion for cohesive design and unique storage solutions.

The Case Goods Capsule launches with three distinct collections that integrate with the luxury brand's sectionals, upholstered headboards, and sofas. The case pieces reflect on a range of design themes, from refined simplicity to art deco references and sculptural detailing.

Architecte and Miramar each offer four fully customizable case piece options including a nightstand with open shelf; a nightstand with two drawers; a console available from 48 to 84 inches in width; and a four-drawer console. An impressively curved, built-in bookshelf variation in Miramar is designed to wrap along the back of semi-circular seating models like the Relax sectional and Anders sofa, available exclusively at Nathan Anthony.

A third case goods collection, Alais 2.0, offers the fully customizable console, available up to 84 inches in width, atop hand-turned, Alder wood feet evolved from a traditional block into its distinctive and shapely form. Adding to the debut are custom dining banquettes with storage options and accommodations for electrical plug-ins.

"The new product development has been a natural extension of our upholstery design process, based on real demand from our interior design clientele," says Mai. "The timing of this season's WestEdge Design Fair is ideal for us to introduce shelving and storage correlates to our trade partners."

Each case piece is available for specifying a variety of wood finishes and specialty veneers.

"Khai has been fully invested in the concept of delivering case goods that pair seamlessly with our in-line upholstery and accent finishes," says co-founder and Chief Creative Officer Tina Nicole. "This level of integration is not something you can source from two different vendors."

Since 2005, Nathan Anthony has been known for its role helping interior designers transform client projects with its benchmade products. Designers access high-level support within the luxury brand's signature Custom Design Concierge™ service to customize product sizes, cushion fill, material covers and accent finishes.

A fully vertical and lean manufacturing-driven operation, Nathan Anthony draws on its legacy as a U.S. based, family-owned and operated business.

Tapped to design this season's Main Stage at WestEdge, Palm Springs talent Staci Munic has selected Nathan Anthony upholstered seating styles for the panel presentations, including the Freya 2.0 bumper sofa and accents chairs Theodora and Aerie.
